MASKWA MEDICAL CENTRE

Maskwa Medical Centre is an innovative approach, committed to accelerating healthcare, diagnostics, and treatment processes, by improving access to medical specialists and services to the people of the Peace Region. Maskwa Medical Centre is in it's building phase in Grande Prairie and is scheduled to open in 2027, nearby the Grande Prairie Regional Hospital.

Maskwa Medical Centre will operate as a publically funded, not-for-profit registered charity, and will provide fully funded services where NO fees will be billed to the patient.

Maskwa Medical Centre is overcoming challenges of rural health care with the addition of a modern training centre, in partnership with Northwest Polytechnic and the University of Alberta Faculty of Medicine. Maskwa Medical Centre is creating opportunities for care providers, both for training and continued practice in Northern Alberta.

Training locally will improve access to family physician in rural Alberta.

This new innnovative not-for-profit model will help the Peace Region in many ways.

- Help retain, and attract doctors to the region.
- Improve access to care, improve quality of care, and result in better health outcomes for those in the region.
- Cause no cost increases for the current healthcare system.
- A region with robust healthcare options benefits all sectors of the local economy, retaining and attracting employees.
- Ongoing reinvestment to research, education, and healthcare right here at home.
